Dear Loving Community,

The Shift Is Now:

Women on the Edge of Evolution

Awakening to the power to co-create our lives and the shape our collective future.

What is our role as women in creating the future of our world? His Holiness the Dalai Lama said, "The world will be saved by western woman."

Yes, something amazing is happening --a GLOBAL AWAKENING for women around the world, not just western women.

As one of the first generations liberated from the tasks of mere survival, we now have the freedom, the credentials, the resources and the interest to turn our attention toward the full transformation of ourselves and our world.

Never before have we as a global group of women been holding so much potential, or so much power, to shape our collective future...

Awakening a new, co-creative feminine power holds the key to our personal and planetary potential.

The good news is that there is a vibrant, life-enriching alternative to masculine power that is fully within reach for every awakening woman: "Feminine power"--and it has the power to transform your life from the inside out.

Have you been asking What is the pathway to awakening the fullness of my authentic power as a woman? Where should I give my energy and attention in order to make the greatest contribution? And how might I work with and support others in this process?

You are invited to join a global community of women as we come together to engage the most important questions of our time.

Here is the link to access 36 audios (they are Free) by some of today's leading thinkers, writers, scientists:

Over 50,000 women from around the globe have already have heard these talks. Let us help expand those numbers.

*Blessings upon you and your work,
Ann*
